Highlights

- The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) will incur costs of approximately $1,400 per set to produce and install signs for 37 of the 57 designated highways or bridges in the bill. Twenty municipalities may incur some costs for installing the signs. Signs usually need to be replaced every 12 to 15 years.

Detailed Analysis

The table below summarizes details about the highways designated by the bill, including the location and the entity responsible for installing the signs. The cost of producing and installing signs is approximately $1,400. Signs usually need to be replaced every 12 to 15 years. The Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) produces the signs and is often responsible for the installation, depending on the location of the designated roadway or bridge. However, if the designated highway is located within municipal boundaries, as is the case with 20 of the highways designated by this bill, the municipality may install the signs and may need to reimburse ODOT for the production costs.
