The resolution has no fiscal impact on the state or political subdivisions. It serves as an application to the U.S. Congress for a federal convention of the states to propose amendments to the U.S. Constitution. The resolution specifies that the convention be limited to considering amendments that (1) impose fiscal restraints on and limit the power and jurisdiction of the federal government, and (2) institute term limits for federal offices. This resolution does not seek to modify the state constitution and would not need to appear on the ballot in Ohio for a statewide vote by the public. Consequently, the state will not incur any ballot advertising costs. Nor would county boards of elections bear any costs for holding elections.
