- The bill's authorization of a 9-1-1 tax levy that applies to portions of a political subdivision does not have a direct fiscal effect on local jurisdictions unless the voters in a given territory enact the tax levy permitted under H.B. 277.

Detailed Fiscal Analysis

Under current law, political subdivisions other than school districts, county school financing districts, and lake facilities authorities may levy property taxes for the purpose of establishing and operating an emergency 9-1-1 system. H.B. 277 permits such a levy to be imposed in all or a portion of the territory of a political subdivision. If the 9-1-1 system to be established and operated with levy funds excludes territory located within the subdivision, the resolution adopted under the bill may describe the area served by the system and specify that the proposed tax would be imposed only in the areas receiving the service. Upon passage of such a resolution, the Board of Elections must submit the question of the tax levy only to those electors residing in the areas in which the tax would be imposed. If the 9-1-1 system would serve the entire subdivision, the resolution cannot exclude territory from the tax levy.

According to LSC research, 16 political subdivisions currently levy a property tax to fund the operations of a 9-1-1 system. All 16 subdivisions are Ohio counties, and LSC surveyed these counties asking whether any territory in the county does not receive service from the county's operation of a 9-1-1 system (refer to map below). Although H.B. 277 will not affect existing levies, these 16 counties may submit a ballot question under the terms of the bill if H.B. 277 is enacted. As of April 2016, LSC identified only two counties – Delaware and Union – that have territory not served by the county's 9-1-1 system. However, three counties did not reply to LSC's survey, so it is possible that more than two counties have unserved territories.

It may be worth noting that a ballot initiative authorized by H.B. 277 might not allow electors to continue to receive the benefits of the 10% and 2.5% rollbacks linked to their current 9-1-1 system levy. H.B. 59 of the 130th General Assembly limited the application of the 2.5% and 10% real property tax rollbacks by specifying that the rollbacks may not be applied to reduce the taxes due on new or replacement levies approved at elections held after September 29, 2013. The 9-1-1 operating system levies in 13 of the 16 counties still qualify for these rollbacks (exceptions being Harrison, Paulding, and Putnam counties).
